

PRESS RELEASE

Morrison County is to conduct post-election review of election results

Morrison County officials will conduct post-election reviews of election results to boost transparency in the election system. Minnesota counties are required to administer a post-election review between 11 and 18 days after each general election to confirm the accuracy of results ahead of the state certification. These events are open to members of the public. The review is a hand count of the ballots for the U.S. Representative and Governor's races in select precincts.

The post-election review for Morrison County will be held on November 21, 2022 at 10am at the County Board Room in the Morrison County Courthouse.

Post-election reviews are one layer of security to ensure our elections are free, fair, secure, and accurate. In each county, a certain number of precincts are randomly selected at the county canvass. The ballots from those precincts are then hand counted to make sure that the results the voting machines reported on Election Day are an accurate reflection of the marked ballots. Results must meet the acceptable performance standards outlined in statute; otherwise, additional precincts must be reviewed.
